Press Release - For Immediate Release

London — Singapore-based TEASPEC on Tuesday was unveiled as part of Mandrake Hotel London's inaugural Shamanic Tea Experience (STE). The event, which was hosted at Mandrake Hotel's acclaimed YOPO restaurant, captures the imagination by displaying the most exotic teas from all over the world. On display were TEASPEC's exquisite 15 year old Pu'er collection and the highly versatile LazyGo Travel Tumbler, exemplifying the contrast between the traditional and the modern in the world of tea. The STE menu was curated by Executive Chef George Scott-Toft and showed off herbal and botanical teas drenched in thousands of years of history.

"The demand for healthy, natural beverages and coffee substitutes has increased over time. Consumers today don't just want healthy tea. They also want to be mindful of the environment and their carbon footprint," said TEASPEC founder and Pu'er tea collector Carole Tan. "A BBC article last year said Canadian researchers at McGill University had found that tea bags used by various premium brands had been leaking high levels of microplastics into water. A single tea bag releases billions of particles into the hot water. Plastics are harmful to the human body and take decades to decompose. All TEASPEC tea bags are made of biodegradable corn fiber from Japan and contain no plastic."

Offering dozens of colourful and innovative designs, TEASPEC products are sold all over Eurasia. "We are so excited to be at Mandrake Hotel London and we can't wait to share as much as we can with our supporters and their communities," Carole said. "Pu'er tea has a two millenia record of serving those that demand only the best such as the Emperor himself. It literally has a taste fit for a King!"
